PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Data analyst with a background in accounting, sales, and healthcare, and a portfolio focused on data-driven insights. My projects include an SQL analysis of Amazon sales data (2025) that identified top-performing products and regional trends, and an automated Python and PostgreSQL pipeline that pulls live cryptocurrency prices from Coingecko.com and formats the data, saving 30 minutes of manual work. As an accountant, I used data from multiple sources to produce reports and create presentations on customer behaviour, accounts payable, and operating costs, turning findings into insights that helped the business make informed decisions. In my own small business, I analysed purchasing patterns across 200+ retail partners to target sales and marketing promotions and strengthen client relationships, growing repeat orders by 25% in 1 year.

I am drawn to data analysis because meeting consumer needs and scaling a business requires using data to highlight strengths to build on and gaps to fix. Focused and intentional about my personal development, I actively seek opportunities that expand my skills and allow me to add value in return.
